Naturally espadrillas

Spring Summer collection

Organic

The fibers that make up our soles are extracted from the vast jute plantations surrounding the delta of the Ganges. Nicknamed "GOLDEN FIBER" because of its lucrative versatility, jute is second only to cotton in the list of the most widely used plant fibers on the planet.

Italian Design

Our collection was born from an idea and from all-Italian research. A small laboratory with the great ambition to bring made in Italy closer to the world of espadrilles.

No residue

Among its countless virtues, jute also has the merit of being a material that is totally biodegradable. It leaves no residue and also through combustion method it does not emit gases that are harmful to the environment.

Natural rubber

To protect the soles of your Casimiro Perez shoes, we have added a layer of 100% Arabic rubber, applied according to vulcanization method. A small cover to extend the warranty on your precious jute soles.

Handsewn

90% of our designs are handsewn. An artisanal method that still retains the winning charm of a workmanship inimitable and exclusive.

Envi-Friendly

Jute grows wild in the region of Bengal, where the Ganges Delta floods miles of fields. 100% biodegradable and recyclable; this is enough to give it the title of queen of environmental champions.

No injected sole

Just know how to weave it and jute can turn into a fantastic natural sole. Only jute and nothing more. Glues, thickeners or other materials are banned in our processing.

Natural jute

Casimiro Perez uses only soles made of pure natural fiber. Jute is a material with low thermal conductivity, insulation and innate breathability.

Camden

The espadrilles is classic, solid color, with special tattoo effect print on the heel. Designed for those seeking novelty in a classic model. Inspired by street art culture, the Camden espadrilles throw down the gauntlet to the metropolis. Sounds, cries, dreams and needs of the new generations become symbols of a pop culture. Graffiti as manifestos of new social challenges. Icons of the collective imagination transformed into tattoos that make our espadilles unique pieces, unrepeatable and personal

NOTES TO SAILORS.

The fit of espadrilles is not flexible. The structure is ESSENTIAL and all the strength rests on the seam that binds the upper to the jute. It is normal that as soon as you put them on your foot will feel constricted. We must let the seam loosen its grip and let the COTTON adhere to the shape of the foot. Unless the wearer feels painful discomfort on the toe, we recommend that always to the customer to choose the exact size if tight. A size up may be more comfortable at the time of purchase, but spent a few days on the foot the canvas will no longer have the same grip, with the result that the espadrilles will climb on the back.

Dominica

Espadrilles Dominica.
Jute and raffia decide to cohabit inside the body of an espadrille that hears the call of the forest.

Inside are the colors of exotic flowers, the scents of fruit tropical and the reflections of the sun. An espadrille that encompasses within itself a whole world.
